Today's feast of Christ the Universal King marks the end of the Church's liturgical year just as the return of Christ the King will mark the end of time, the Final Judgement. Looking forward to an era of peace and justice, to a time when the exploited, the poor are vindicated. The power of the idea of the kingdom of heaven has had a huge influence, for good and bad on human civilisation. Many secular ideologies, communism, utopianism, the green movement, have drawn on this very powerful. The theology of end times is called eschatology, and there is a tension between realised eschatology and future eschatology. The kingdom of heaven was inaugurated with the coming of Jesus (realised) but as we are painfully aware has not been fulfilled (future). We are called to do our bit in building the kingdom, to get involved in feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, visiting prisoners.

Today also marks the end of the year of faith. It is being marked in Rome by a special veneration of the relics of St Peter, the rock who Jesus chose to lead the disciples, our first Pope. So today we celebrate hope, the hope that comes from Christ our King, and the hope that comes from knowing our faith has been founded on the rock of Peter. This morning a liturgy was broadcast live from the Holy Name to about two and half million people listening on Radio 4, and an unlimited audience around the world through the internet. If you would like to listen to it again you can do so via the link on our website.... www.holynome.info/events - the link will be live from Monday

THIS WEEK'S SAINTS

Monday - St Catherine of Alexandria, virgin and martyr, was another of the heroic women who died for the Faith during the sporadic persecutions of the first three centuries. Her emblem is the spiked wheel associated with her martyrdom.

Tuesday - St John Berchmans SJ. Not all the early Jesuits were of noble birth. John was the son of a shoemaker and after taking his vows with the Jesuits in Flanders he died in 1621 in the midst of his studies in Rome.

Saturday - St Andrew the Apostle is mentioned several times in the Gospels. He was the brother of St Peter and was crucified on a cross shaped like an X, the "saltire" of the flag of Scotland, of which land he is the patron saint.

Faith and the Arts

We would like to start a chaplaincy group devoted to the arts and the humanities and their connection with the Faith. The programme could include cultural excursions as well as chaplaincy events. If this interests you, please contact Fr William. pearsall@jesuits.net
