THIS WEEK'S SAINTS

Tuesday – St Scholastica lived in a small community of women near the monastery of Monte Cassino (Italy), which her brother, St Benedict, had founded. This was the beginning of the great monastic movement in Europe. She died in 543 AD.

Wednesday – Our Lady of Lourdes: The appearing of Mary to young St Bernadette in this remote part of France (in 1858) was the start of a pilgrim tradition which has brought healing of mind, spirit and body to millions of people.

Saturday – St Cyril and St Methodius were brothers who belonged to the Byzantine (Greek) part of the Catholic Church and who undertook the conversion of the Slavic peoples to Christianity in the 800's AD. The Cyrillic alphabet is still in use. Today is also St Valentine's, the day traditionally set aside to celebrate young love (and maybe not so young!).

SILENT 28th February 2015, 8am - 8pm

A ONE DAY, SILENT RETREAT designed to offer students and staff a chance to spend a day in prayerful reflection, receive guidance on prayer, and take time out from busy everyday life. This is a free retreat.

The Problem of Evil

'Where are you God?'

Have you ever struggled to get to sleep — when the night drags on This is the experience of Job in today's first reading. The Book of Job bravely and without compromise looks at pain in the eye...... Our first reading today explores this. When we follow the news in the unremitting 24-hours news cycle it can lead us to being immersed in an avalanche of bad news. If we take this seriously it can be an experience of existential and theological pain — leading us to cry out 'God where are you? God what are you doing about this?'.

We get the answer in the Gospel – God in the human person of Jesus is crowded by many Job's bringing their Problems and woes. In his healing

We see the answer – but even more in his solidarity with our suffering. So we have a choice – in the face of suffering do we curse the darkness or try and light a candle and be part of the solution.

On Monday night we are offering a very practical way to be part of the solution – as volunteering placements in some of the poorest parts of the world are presented by Jesuit Missions. On Thursday at our refreshers event you will also have a chance to meet some of the organisers of the groups who use the chaplaincy as a base to help alleviate suffering in Manchester. If you want to help come along!
